ROOM 123A

Donald Hall has written numerous books of poetry, most recently White Apples and the Taste of Stone: Selected Poems 1946-2006, The Painted Bed, and Without: Poems, which was published on the third anniversary of his wife and fellow poet Jane Kenyon's death from leukemia. Other notable collections include The One Day, which won the National Book Critics Circle Award, the Los Angeles Times Book Prize, and a Pulitzer Prize nomination; The Happy Man, which won the Lenore Marshall Poetry Prize; and Exiles and Marriages, which was the Academy of American Poets' Lamont Poetry Selection for 1956.

Donald Hall's honors include two Guggenheim fellowships, the Poetry Society of America's Robert Frost Silver medal, and the Ruth Lilly Prize for poetry. He also served as Poet Laureate of New Hampshire from 1984 to 1989. In December 1993 he and Jane Kenyon were the subject of an Emmy Award-winning Bill Moyers documentary, "A Life Together." Furthermore, his insightful commentary was featured extensively in the 1994 Ken Burns documentary, Baseball, which aired on PBS. In 2006, Hall was appointed the Library of Congress's fourteenth Poet Laureate Consultant in Poetry. He continues to live and work on his New Hampshire farm, a site that serves as both his home and an inspiration for much of his work.

This reading is free and open to the public.

The WCCC Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, the international honor society of two-year colleges, will provide complimentary refreshments.
